

Music Student of the Month

Ansley Loock

Violin, 6th Grade Strings

Ansley took up the violin last year in grade 5. She says that playing the violin is challenging, and she likes a challenge. In Strings class, small groups of students each play different parts of a piece, all at the same time. Each student simultaneously listens to her instrument, to the sound that her group is making, and to the music of the entire class. Ansley says, "Staying in time with your group and with the other groups takes practice and concentration." Her advice to new musicians is to practice. "Practice makes a difference."

Ansley credits Strings Director, Pamela Wright, with helping the students to perform well together and to get along. Ansley says, "Mrs. Wright is a really good teacher, and I like how well we work together as a class." Mrs. Wright says, "Ansley does a great job of being prepared for class. I can tell that she practices at home in between classes. Love having her in class."

Congratulations to Ansley Loock,
